A WOMAN'S INSTINCT IS INCREDIBLE.

But is it enough to detect cancer of the womb, ovaries and cervix?

女人的直觉是超凡的。

但是单靠如此就足以察觉到影响子宫、卵巢和子宫颈的癌症吗?

Women's Gynaecological Cancers originate from a woman's reproductive organs and are a serious concern today as these cancers are ranked among the top 10 cancers* affecting Singaporean women. It is important that women protect themselves with awareness and active screening like getting a Pap Smear done once every three years.

So read on to find out more on how you can protect yourself and your loved ones, because when it comes to cancer, it takes more than a woman's instinct.

What is Cervical Cancer?

The female reproductive system consists of the ovaries, fallopian tubes, uterus (womb), and the vagina. The cervix is the neck of the womb and is made up of millions of tiny cells. Changes can occur in these cells over time and lead to the development of cervical cancer if left untreated.

Are you at risk?

All women are at risk of developing cervical cancer. Your risk increases if you:

- Have ever had sex and/or are sexually active
- Have had multiple sexual partners
- Have had a history of sexually transmitted infections such as genital warts or genital herpes
- Smoke

A Pap Smear Can Save Your Life!

A Pap Smear is a screening test that detects early cell changes in the cervix which might become cancerous. This procedure involves collecting a sample of cells from the cervix and the vagina. This cell sample is then examined in a laboratory for any abnormality.
